An Efficient Remedy

In all cases of Bronchial and Pulmonary Affections is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

As such it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession, and in many thousands of families, for the past forty years, it has been regarded as an invaluable household remedy. It is a preparation that only requires to be taken in very small quantities, and a few doses of it administered in the early stages of a cold or cough will effect a speedy cure, and may, very possibly, save life. There is no doubt whatever that

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Has preserved the lives of great numbers of persons, by arresting the development of Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Pulmonary Consumption, and by the cure of those dangerous maladies. It should be kept ready for use in every family where there are children, as it is a medicine far superior to all others in the treatment of Croup, the alleviation of Whooping Cough, and the cure of Croup and Influenza, ailments peculiarly incidental to childhood and youth. Promptly acting in dealing with the early stages of a class of the most important diseases of the single day may, in many cases, prevent the disease from becoming chronic, and thus saving the patient from the

Mrs. J. A. Poppe has sued John O'Brien, in the Justice Court, for $84.42, for goods sold and delivered.

The attention of readers is called to the advertisement, in another column, of a steam boiler and pump for sale.

Ed. Wegner, the druggist, has erected on the southwest corner of his drug store a handsome gilt mortar and pestle.

C. H. Crofoot of the Glen Ellen Hotel, caught eighty-six trout in Sonoma creek on Friday morning. Fishing is reported to be excellent up that way.

E. J. Mallin has been appointed by Grand Chancellor, T. F. Batchelder, District Deputy of the Knights of Pythias.

H. C. Manuel is busily engaged in filling large orders for basalt blocks to be used in paving the accepted streets of San Francisco, and thousands are being shipped to that city weekly.

The century plant in F. Clewe's garden has now reached a height of twenty feet. It is growing at the rate of three or four inches each day and gives promise of blooming in a short time.

Commissioner of Deeds for all the States, Mr. G. E. Reardon, Baltimore, Md., writes that he suffered for a long time with rheumatism which yielded to no treatment until he applied St. Jacobs Oil.

The following officers of Bear River Lodge, No. 97, K. of P., were elected on Thursday evening last to serve for the ensuing term: F. Ehrlich, C. C.; W. P. Wilson, V. C.; H. Raschen, P.; J. J. Wistyrk, M. of A.

The Committee of Arrangements of the Sonoma Turn Verein met last Wednesday evening, and decided to celebrate the glorious Fourth by a grand picnic at Pioneer Grove, on Monday, July 5th. Full particulars will be given next week.

Mark Wooster, who was severely injured a few weeks ago by falling in an attempt to alight from a buggy, is still confined to his bed. His condition is very precarious on account of his extreme old age, he being over 88 years of age.

A bunch of wheat five feet ten inches in height was brought to this office one day this week. It was taken from a small wheat field at Vineyard Station. The bunch contains twenty-five stalks and is the product of two grains of wheat.

Every household is liable to be visited by sudden sickness. Often it occurs in the night, distant from the doctor, nothing in the house to give relief, the patient is sure to get worse. A box of Ayer's Pills, in such an emergency, would arrest disorders which, if not taken in season, may become deadly.

A party of railroad men, consisting of General Superintendent Whiting, Secretary Johnson and Engineer Zook of the S. F. & N. P. R. R. Co., were in town two days this week. Just what their mission was is not definitely known, but their visit is associated with important railroad changes, which are reported to take place at an early day.

A telegram from Petaluma to the city papers, bearing date of the 25th inst., states that a family by the name of Branch, residing near Sonoma, lost two children by diphtheria, one night last week. For the benefit of the party who sent that dispatch, we will state that there is no such family residing near Sonoma, that no deaths have taken place in this valley for several weeks and that not a case of diphtheria is known to exist hereabouts, nor has there been for several months.

E. T. Mills, traveling agent and correspondent of the Santa Rosa "Republican," has been circulating among the people of Sonoma Valley several days the past week. He is a terror to delinquent subscribers and other sinners and ere he takes his departure many of the "Republican's" patrons hereabouts will be enabled to go to bed with a clear conscience, happy in the thought that they have squared up with this printer, and that they now have some chance of reaching Heaven in the sweet by-and-by.

An Italian farm hand, while running a mowing machine on Col. Hooper's place, last Wednesday morning, was thrown from his seat, while the machine was in motion, by one of the wheels running into a rut. In striking, his right wrist came in contact with the sickle blade, nearly severing the hand. Dr. Davis was sent for, and has hopes of saving the hand, in which case it will never be of much service again on account of the tendons and muscles of the wrist being completely severed.

Disgraceful Street Fight.

Ever since the memorable combat fought on the Glen Ellen battlefield several weeks ago there has been an ambition among the toughs of this town to win fame as fighters. On Sunday last this yearning took practical shape and culminated in a most disgraceful scene on one of our public thoroughfares.

Several Chinese were proceeding quietly along Napa street on the afternoon in question, when one of their number was jostled by a white man. This enraged the Chinaman and a fight immediately ensued between the two men. Cobblestones were freely used and both the combatants repeatedly knocked down.

At last the white man, getting the Chinaman's head in "chancery," beat him blind and he was left lying in the middle of the street bleeding and helpless tillled away by a number of his countrymen. All this took place in broad daylight in the presence of a large number of people, yet no one interfered to put a stop to the disgraceful exhibition and the fight went on to a finish.

The following Tuesday the Chinaman had the white man arrested and he was taken before Justice of the Peace Breitenbach and fined $10, which he paid and was discharged from custody. He thereupon sued out a warrant against the Chinaman, who was also arrested and fined $10, which was likewise paid. As to who was the aggressor we are not prepared to state but we do know that if law and order is to prevail in this community a severe example should be made of all law-breakers.

An Old Horse. [Santa Rosa Democrat.] Mr. Rector of Rector's Mills, on Mark West creek, has a horse in his possession that is thirty-three years of age, which money could not buy.

He presented the faithful old equine to his son when but a colt, and told him to raise him so that he would be a friend to him, rather than a piece of personal property. His son, who is now dead, was then but 14 years of age, and took every care of his almost playmate, and truly brought the animal up to be a true friend to him, as was illustrated many times during their partnership.

The old horse learned to walk a log across a river, or any narrow foot bridge that would sustain his weight, and was almost a trick horse. One trait he possessed was a terrible aversion for anything that resembled an Indian. It was almost an impossibility to restrain him when an Indian was in sight. That trait, however, proved of great service to his master as was proven on subsequent occasions.

An Important Case Decided. The case of Louis Pedrotte vs. the Board of Supervisors of Sonoma county, action to enjoin the Supervisors from re-issuing county bonds at a reduced rate of interest, has been decided by Judge Sawyer of the United States Circuit Court, in favor of the Supervisors. Our county had a bonded indebtedness of $306,000 at 7 per cent prior to 1880, but in that year the Supervisors called in these bonds and reduced them to 6 per cent. Last year, however, they found that the interest was too high and reduced it to 4 per cent and issued an order calling in the bonds. The plaintiff sued to enjoin the defendant from issuing bonds at the latter rate. Judge Sawyer held that the Supervisors were doing their duty in endeavoring to reduce the expenses of the county.

Patents Granted. The following patents were granted to citizens of the Pacific States during the past week, and reported expressly for the INDEX-TRIBUNE: J. S. Hand, San Francisco, measuring device; J. W. Weaver, Myrtle Creek, weeder; I. F. Jacques, San Francisco, ironing machine; J. C. Muirhead, Grub Gulch, drill machine; J. Richards, San Francisco, steam engine valve; A. Brown, Mendocino, paper cutter and stamper; W. R. Forrest, Seattle, amalgamator; H. B. Angell, San Francisco, dredger; J. Fink, San Francisco, electric gas lighting apparatus; E. Boland, San Francisco, cash and parcel carrier.

SANTA ROSA ITEMS. [Santa Rosa Democrat.] Sheriff Bishop appointed R. K. Truitt of Healdsburg, a Deputy Sheriff, Wednesday.

Farmers say that at the present price hay brings it is not worth while to cut and bale it.

An earthquake occurred in this city about 11.40 A. M., Wednesday morning. The vibration was from east to west and lasted about five seconds.

Mr. Forsyth, who has a large ranch on Mark West creek, states that the grape prospect in that section was never so good as it is this spring. The vines are setting full, and are generally in a promising condition. Hay will not generally commence until next week, as much of it was late sown.

Willie, a 12-year-old son of Mr. Bondin, who resides in this city, while playing around a pony on McDonald avenue Tuesday afternoon, was severely kicked by the animal in the left temple. Three physicians were in attendance on the injured lad all Tuesday night. He is not expected to survive his injuries.

FAIR NOTES.

Miss A. Terry won the Jersey cow. L. Modini of the Garibaldi House, won the suit of clothing.

The ticket that won the $10 gold piece is said to be held in Mexico. That was a lovely tea set of gold band china ware won by Miss Eloisa Pauli.

Mrs. Robt. Johnson's booth and the wheel of fortune attracted a great deal of attention.

The ladies of St. Francis' Church did everything in their power to make the Fair a success.

As usual Jake took the cake, but shared the honor this time with another who tied him in guessing its weight.

Financially the Fair was a grand success. More money was realized than at any previous Fair held in Sonoma.

That marble-top bedroom set now adorns one of the bedrooms of L. Heydt, our popular harness maker.

The lucky holder of the ticket which carried off the magnificent set of silverware is supposed to be Mr. Kavanaugh of Petaluma.

A sufficient sum was realized to entirely liquidate the indebtedness of the church, with a neat little surplus over.

The music by the Sonoma and Catholic church brass bands was splendid and added much to the enjoyment of visitors.

The net proceeds of the Fair is set down at $2,650, although this sum may be swelled to $3,000 by money that is yet outstanding.

The announcement that Herr Karl Formes and his pupils would entertain the visitor on Saturday evening, packed the house like sardines in a box.

The balloting for the most popular young lady, on Saturday night, was an exciting contest. Miss Eliza Biggins received a majority of the votes cast and was presented with a handsome bracelet.

Tannat. [F. Polndorf in S. F. Merchant.] Since 1867 I have had the pleasant acquaintance with the wine of Madiran, the product of the Tannat grape. My modicum of red wine at my meals I always took systematically, drowned in water. When, in my frequent visits to Paris I enjoyed the hospitality of my friend, Monsieur Stanislas Baron, it was that wine, which, with its full viscosity and splendid color, permitted of a liberal admixture of the thirst-quenching element without feeling the nausety and crudeness of the latter.

With the treble addition of water the Madiran wine remains wine, a light, most agreeable tasting wine with the astringent matter still richly penetrating. I have with double delight passed through the Madiran district in the society of my above named friend, for I did not forget that nice wine made from the Tannat grape there, enjoyed in Paris. When advising Mr. Wetmore some six years ago to request Mr. Baron to send him Tannat cuttings for propagating in California, I knew it would be a valuable acquisition. But I did not foresee the brilliant success that we have achieved with that vine.

In the report on samples at the Convention of 1884, about this time of Tannat of Glen Ellen and Oakville the opinion is expressed, that the variety merits the greatest attention, as the samples show the deepest color, combined with harmonious astringency and unexceptional taste; that it is useful and character giving in blends with inferior and with higher class varieties. It has proved prosperous and productive of a high quality wine in California. In the conclusions of that report the advice of utilizing the Tannat in the vine of the four grades of red wines, which seem to be the outcome of our production, is given. For the share I had in that advice, based upon the persuasion gained from few, but successful examples, I could not thank the experience of the advice from the examination of the samples of the 1885 vintage which by the unanimous verdict of the many gentlemen who tasted them during the Convention week, from the 15th to 20th of March, 1886, are considered admirable wines, and the vine yielding them worthy to occupy a favored place in the vineyard. It is one of the varieties of preference, which as to quantity and quality seems to be one of the really acceptable ones.

The Agua Caliente Springs Hotel, having been enlarged and refurbished is now one of the most elegant and attractive summer and winter resorts on the coast. Visitors will find the house supplied with every modern convenience, and no pains will be spared to make their stay pleasant and comfortable. Prices to correspond with the dull times.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve. The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chills, Corns and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by all drug stores.

A RELIC OF THE PAST.

An Election Ticket Voted Thirty Years Ago. A few days ago a gentleman, in turning the leaves of a book, that at one time belonged to the late Theodore Bates, discovered between the leaves of the same an election ticket voted in this county in 1856.

The ticket, which is now in our possession, is printed on ballot paper of the same shade and texture now in use. It is 8 1/2 inches in length by 3 1/2 in width and, considering its age, is remarkably well preserved. Following is a fac simile of the ticket:

REGULAR Democratic Ticket.

BUCHANAN & BRECKINRIDGE

For Presidential Electors, Peter Della Torre, A. C. Bradford, George Frenner, Augustin Olivera.

For Congressmen, Charles L. Scott, Joseph C. McKibben.

For Clerk of the Supreme Court, Charles S. Fairfax.

For Superintendent Public Instruction, A. Jackson Moulder.

For County Officers, For State Senator, A. W. Taliaferro.

For Assemblymen, Uriah Edwards, Richard Harrison.

For Supt. Public Instruction, Edward Fisher.

For Justices of the Peace, J. P. Wood, James Munday.

For Constables, William Ellis, Edward Gillan.

Many of the names on this ancient ticket are familiar to old residents of Sonoma county. Smith D. Towne, who ran for Assessor, lived in Petaluma and mysteriously disappeared years ago. The story goes that he went "back to the States," got married and started on his return with his bride, but he never returned. He mysteriously disappeared like thousands of others in those days, and his fate has never been known to this day.

Jas. Munday, who ran for Justice of the Peace, was an uncle of Assemblyman Munday of Petaluma. He, with J. S. Wood, William Ellis and Uriah Edwards has long since joined the land of the silent majority.

Edward Gillan, who is on the ticket for Constable is our present smiling and popular Deputy Assessor, and is good for a long lease of life yet.

SUICIDED. W. P. Allen of Healdsburg Blows His Brains Out.

A sad suicide took place in Healdsburg on the morning of the 22d inst. W. P. Allen, a carpenter by trade, and a pioneer of this county, shot himself in the head with a revolver with suicidal intent, and expired immediately. At the Coroner's inquest a cousin of the deceased testified that he occupied the same room with him and that he was awakened at an early hour in the morning, by hearing a pistol shot, and upon springing from his bed he discovered Mr. Allen lying upon the floor, shot through the head by his own hand. He gasped a few breaths and then expired. The Coroner's jury found that deceased was a native of Ohio, 78 years of age and that he came to his death by a gunshot wound, self-inflicted, while laboring under temporary aberration of mind.

Ex-Congressman Weaver, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C., considers Red Star Cough Cure a remarkable remedial agent. It contains no dangerous narcotics and costs but twenty-five cents.

Good Results in Every Case. D. A. Bradford, wholesale paper dealer of Chattanooga, Tenn., writes that he was seriously afflicted with a severe cold that settled on his lungs; had tried many remedies without benefit. Being induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, did so and was entirely cured by use of a few bottles. Since which time he has used it in his family for all Coughs and Colds, with best results. This is the experience of thousands whose lives have been saved by this Wonderful Discovery. Trial bottles free at all Drug Stores.

THE HORNET'S NEST AT SHILOH.

Carrying the Confederate Colors Forward—Miraculously Preserved. I witnessed the various bloody and unsuccessful attacks on the "hornet's nest." During one of the dreadful repulses of our forces, Gen. Bragg directed me to ride forward to the central regiment of a brigade of troops that was recoiling across an open field to take its colors and carry them forward. "The flag must not go back again," he said. "Obedient to the order I dashed through the line of battle, seized the colors from the color-bearer, and said to him: 'Gen. Bragg says these colors must not go to the rear.' While talking to him the color-sergeant was shot down. A moment or two afterward I was almost alone on horseback in the open field between the two lines of battle.

An officer came up to me with a bullet-hole in each cheek, the blood streaming from his mouth, and asked: 'What are you doing with my colors, sir?' 'I am obeying Gen. Bragg's orders, sir, to hold them where they are,' was my reply. 'Let me have them,' he said. 'If any man but my color-bearer carries these colors, I am the man. Tell Gen. Bragg I will see that these colors are in the right place. But he must attack this position in flank; we can never carry it alone from the front.' It was Col. Allen, afterward Governor of Louisiana. I returned, miraculously preserved, to Gen. Bragg, and reported Col. Allen's words. I then carried an order to the same troops, giving the order I think to Gen. Gibson, to fall back to the fence in the rear and reorganize. This was done, and then Gen. Bragg dispatched me to the right, and Col. Frank Gardner (afterward major general) to the left, to inform the brigade and division commanders on either side that a combined movement would be made on the front and flank of that position. The movements were made and Petreus was captured.—Col. Lockett in The Century.

Watching the Chicks Shell Out. I was rather surprised last night when I drifted into the fanciers' show to see four indubitable swells sitting in four large wooden chairs in front of an artificial incubator, and staring at a lot of eggs with the most absorbed and interested faces imaginable. They all wore fur coats, leaned on their sticks heavily, and two of them held their watches in their hands. There were dozens of eggs under the glass case, and every few minutes one of the shells would open, and a small and puny chick was born into the world. When the event occurred, the four men would look at each other with eyes that were invariably wide open, and comment upon the size, appearance and activity of the recent arrival with the solemnity of supreme court judges. Occasionally the two who held their watches in their hands would make bets of some magnitude on the interval of time which would elapse between one birth and another. Once, when four or five of the liveliest chicks pounced upon a weary-looking specimen who seemed to object to being born, the very moment the shell was broken the interest of the four men was almost painful. The exhibition was really very much of a novelty to them, and I am told that they had hired the chairs from an usher three nights before, and that attended the show regularly from that time on.—Blakely Hall in The Argonaut.

Without Knot or Blemish. One plank 9 feet wide and 20 feet long, without knot or blemish of any kind, and another 12 feet wide are among the contributions of British Columbia to the Liverpool exhibition.—Inter Ocean.

It is better to be proud of your descendants than to boast of your ancestors.—Philadelphia Call.

Only Half Alive. There are hosts of men and women who, to coin a phrase, are only half alive. That is to say, they have seldom, if ever, any appetite, are nervous, weak, fitful and troubled by numerous small pains and aches. In the presence of ignominy, elegant vitality they seem mere puppets. Such persons are usually fond of frequently dosing themselves with a few pills in the course of the year, enough, however, to stock any apothecary shop of average dimensions. This, of course, defeats instead of furthering the end in view, viz., the recovery of health and vigor. Were they to seek it from an unobtrusive source of vitality, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, how different would be their case. Then vigor would return to their debilitated frames, the glow of health to their cheeks, their trembling, uncertain gait would grow firm and elastic, appetite, that grandest of all senses, would give relish for the daily food, were it ever so coarse, and refreshing sleep would crown the tasks of the day.

THE NATION'S TREASURY

A Terrible Tale of Cruelty by Murderous Arizona Apaches.
(Sacramento Bee.)
Sheriff Robert Paul of Tucson, Arizona, spent yesterday in Sacramento. The name of Sheriff Paul is familiar to all newspaper readers, and he has probably been through as trying and exciting ordeals as have fallen to the lot of any official, even on the western border of the world. The Sheriff is a powerfully built man, about 5 feet 10 inches in height. He is an entertaining conversationalist, has mild, blue eyes, and the appearance of a well-to-do rancher or cattle dealer. He is a native of Massachusetts, came to California in 1849, and was Sheriff of Calaveras county from 1859 to 1864.

Last evening Mr. Paul was conversing with a party of Sacramento about a number of stirring events which have occurred in this section, when some one present mentioned the outrages which have been perpetrated by the Apaches. The Sheriff said that no one who had not been there could form any idea of the extent and enormity of these outrages, and he vigorously denounced the vacillating, dilly-dallying policy of the Government towards the murderous red-skins. He related an incident which occurred about three weeks ago, eight miles from Calabasas, in Pima county. A number of Apaches went to the ranch of a man named Peck. They entered the house, and found no one present but Mrs. Peck, her infant child, eleven months of age, and a young lady niece. The Indians shot Mrs. Peck dead, and then pinned her to the floor by driving a knife through her body. Still not content, the fiends tore the clothes from the murdered woman, took a kettle of boiling food from the stove and poured it over her. An Indian then took the eleven-months-old child by the legs, swung it over his head, and dashed its brains out against a table. They next bound the young lady and started away. They had gone but a short distance when they came upon Mr. Peck and a hired man named Owens. The latter managed to reach his horse and was riding away, when he was shot through the neck, and instantly killed. Peck was taken a prisoner, the Indians pulled off his boots, and told him to run. He saw the Indians were preparing to shoot and darted away, and though the bullets flew about him, he succeeded in escaping. He dashed into his house, saw the terrible scene that had been enacted there, and continued his flight, arriving at Calabasas almost a raving maniac.

Sheriff Paul was on the scene as soon as possible, and he says he hopes never again to look upon such a sight. Mother and babe were tenderly buried, as was Owens, the hired man, but the cowardly murderers had escaped to their mountain fastnesses or fled across the Mexican border.

Vegetable Clothing.
(St. Nicholas for May.)

About two hundred years ago the governor of the island of Jamaica, Sir Thomas Lynch, sent to King Charles II of England, a vegetable necktie, and a very good necktie it was, although it had grown on a tree and had not been altered since it was taken from the tree.

A gentleman who witnessed two natives manufacturing this lace, thus describes it. A tree about twenty feet high and six inches in diameter, with a bark looking much like that of a birch tree, was cut down. Three strips of bark, each about six inches wide and eight feet long, were taken from the trunk and thrown into a stream of water. Then each man took a strip while it was still in the water, and with the point of his knife pared a thin layer of the inner bark from one end of the strip. This layer was then taken in the fingers and gently pulled, whereupon it came away in an entire even sheet of the entire width and length of the strip of bark. Twelve sheets were thus taken from each strip of bark, and thrown into the water.

The men were not through yet, however, for when each strip of bark had yielded its twelve sheets, each sheet was taken from the water and gradually stretched side by side. The spectator could hardly believe his eyes. The sheet broadened and broadened until from a wide, it became a filmy cloud of delicate lace, over three feet in width. The astonished gentleman was forced to confess that no human-made loom ever turned out lace which could surpass in snowy whiteness and gossamer-like delicacy that product of nature.

The natural lace is not so regular in formation as the material called illusion, so much worn by ladies in summer; but it is as soft and white and will bear washing, which is not true of illusion. In Jamaica and Central America, among the poorer people it supplies the place of manufactured cloth, which they cannot afford to buy; and the wealthier classes do not by any means scorn it for ornamental use. The tree is commonly called the lace-bark tree. Its botanical name is Laetia linteria.

A Rare Case of Gratitude.

A double house was moved away from Powell street, near North Beach, this week, about which an old-timer told me a true and interesting story, rare because an illustration of that rare quality in humanity—sincere and disinterested gratitude. Two young men from New York State, who had been to school together, came to San Francisco early in the "fifties." I will call them Black and Gray, good enough names for the purposes of the story. Black went to the mines, and Gray remained in the city, and with a small sum fitted out a little store. He prospered, married, had children. They came a big reverse. He found himself in a tight place, from which nothing but $15,000 would extricate him. He went among his friends to raise the money, but they had none to give him. And then, as he turned a street corner sharply, he ran into Black's arms. He told him his trouble, and gave him all his history during the ten years they had been separated.

"I have the money," said Black; "but $15,000 justizes my pile. I am tired of mining, and hoped to settle down here and get into some business, but you can have it, my dear fellow, and I'll take a whack at pick and rocker again."

Gray took the money, and Black returned to the mountains. In the course of that year the merchant made a lucky turn and sent the miner his money with ample interest. Then they ceased to correspond, and the last the merchant heard of his friend was that he, too, was about to marry and move into a new mining district.

Five years afterward the miner and his family returned to San Francisco. Black was dead broke. Everything had gone wrong with him. His mining speculations had failed, the mines he had discovered petered out, the men he had trusted deceived him, and he had about fifty dollars remaining of a once ample fortune. He hunted up his friend Gray, who was, of course, delighted to see him. "And I don't see anything for me to do, old man," said the despondent miner, "except to get a job shovelling sand, if you can help me to one."

"I have just moved into a handsome house on Powell street," said Gray, "and I want you to come and dine with me to-morrow evening. It is a double house, finished about a week ago."

The miner was on time, with his shabbily dressed wife and little ones.

"You did well sticking to the town," he remarked to his old schoolfellow. "Here you are way up as a merchant, living in a fine house, all your own, and having a bank account as long as my arm, I suppose." Before dinner they visited the adjoining house, which was furnished in precisely the same style as the merchant's dwelling. Then they sat down, chatted over old times until the lateness of the hour warned the miner and his wife that it was time to return to their lodging-house.

"All right, my boy," said Gray, "but just step next door, there is something I wish to show you which I neglected on our first visit." When they entered the hall Black halted. "Here," he said, "that looks kind of like my trunk."

"Nonsense," said Gray, "come up stairs to this bedroom."

"Why," said the miner, looking about him, "confound you, you have moved all my traps up here from that lodging-house."

"Ay, have I, my friend?" shouted the other, slapping him on the shoulder. "Where should a man keep his things but in his own house, and in what part of the house better than his own bedroom?" Black was bewildered, and began to have doubts of his friend's sanity, but when his friend thrust a deed of this very house into his hand, and followed with a deed of co-partnership in his business, he broke down and cried like a child.

"And now we are moving away this old house, sir, to another quarter," said the narrator of this remarkable tale of gratitude and friendship, "but I would not take a hundred thousand dollars for it." It was Black himself who told me the story, now a most successful merchant, whose name is good on "Change for close upon half a million."

Bullock county, Ga., has thirty-two families that contain 376 children. One family has twenty-two, and none less than ten.

It costs New York City $500,000 to support the children committed by the Police Magistrates.
